Industrial Action

As you may have seen in the news over the last week the NEU, a teaching union, will be asking their members to go on strike on Wednesday 1st February. At this current time none of our teachers here at Holy Trinity are going to go on strike. Therefore, school will be open as normal to all pupils on Wednesday 1st February. I will keep you updated if there are going to be changes to this.

---

Attendance

---

Below you will see the attendance figures for the whole of last term and then for last week (week beginning 16th January 2023). I am aware that before Christmas we had a lot of illness in school but our attendance for the whole term fell well below the 95% target. Not one class was near this target. The attendance for last week is still poor with only two classes getting above 95%. Every day counts for your child in school. Please think about this when considering whether or not to send your child into school.
